The Economy of Communion Annual Meeting

A lifestyle of giving, of seeing each person as the pinnacle of our actions, brings to life a method of doing business that offers hope to our world especially in these troubled economic times. The EoC has been called a prophesy for a sustainable future. Come and join us as we share the latest developments in the EoC and explore this lifestyle of giving.

A New Style of Economic Action

A Lifestyle of Hope

2009 marks the 18th anniversary of the EoC. A return to our roots, a look at today's accomplishments and tomorrow's goals along with the emerging collaboration between the businesses and academia will be featured. Please join us!

BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

Excerpt from Chiara Lubich:

"...(W)ork is constitutive of the human person and in accordance with the intentions of God. It is such an important aspect of human life that if it were lacking, we would have to consider the human person as being less human.

"Human beings fulfill themselves especially through their work. Therefore, we should seek to carry out the economy of communion in the best possible way. Indeed, we should feel called to make of every hour devoted to it a masterpiece of precision, order and harmony."
